SPEAKING OUR FUTURES:
CAREER & PROFESSIONAL GOAL PLANNING WORKSHOP

Saturday, April 24, 2021
12:00 – 1:00 pm ET

Discover hidden skills. Identify your professional goals. Understand your next steps. John Paulas returns to lead us in a special career planning workshop for students, early career and emerging scholars. This session will provide empowering, hopeful, and encouraging professional development guidance in a virtual program format.

John Paulas, PhD is president and founder of PhD Matters Ltd, a career consulting and placement firm that works for PhDs, universities and learned societies across the U.S., and businesses and non-profit organizations. Before PhD Matters, John directed fellowships and grants programs and created professional development programming at the University of California, Berkeley. He holds a PhD from the University of Chicago in ancient literature.

Participation is limited to students and early-career professionals, and is capped at 50 total participants.
